

DRESSED FOR SUCCESS

Aqua have just launched three new clothing items under the Force 12 banner, designed to keep you warm, dry and comfortable throughout the year.

TACKLE TALK

For their latest clothing releases, Aqua have identified the needs of the carp angler and manufactured the garments from the latest in cutting-edge materials with construction techniques designed for the mountaineering market. Nick Helleur was out testing the original prototype all through the winter and gave Aqua detailed feedback of any modifications he felt needed to be made. Other anglers involved in the development of this latest product were Andy Cadwallader, Phil Bunyan and Keith Sykes, each bringing with them countless years of experience, ensuring that this new range of clothing performs at the highest level.

Force 12 Jacket and Trousers

This is serious clothing for serious carp anglers. Both the jacket and trousers are 100% waterproof and will keep you dry even in a torrential downpour due to the material they are made from, and they have an impressive hydrostatic head rating of 7000mm. The seams are heat-sealed and water-resistant to prevent water leaking in during the severest of conditions. The material used is a two-layer polyester Taslon with a matt finish in carpy green colours. Although highly waterproof, the material is also extremely breathable with a WVP (Water Vapour Permeable) breathability rating of 7000 m2. Every aspect of the jacket has been carefully thought through; there are zipped pockets to keep your accessories safe, and adjustable cuffs to prevent rain ingress. Both garments are very durable and designed to last season after season.

Force 12 Fleece Jacket

Designed to complement the jacket and trousers, the Force 12 Fleece Jacket is extremely warm and comfortable due to a three-layer construction. The outer layer is a 100% polyester fleece laminated with a breathable membrane and a 100% polyester mesh. This gives it a WVP breathability rating of 3000 m2. The Force 12 Fleece will keep you nice and warm, especially when worn with the impressive Force 12 Jacket and Trousers.

The Force 12 Fleece Jacket has a very impressive breathability rating.

No chance of any rain getting to your valuables in these pockets!

Extra protection is provided by a hood for the harsh conditions.

Big thermal boots are easily accommodated with adjustable leg zips.
